

Reality as Creator

I didn't invent reality - reality invented me. Although we don't know how we got here or why anything exists - we know that reality created us. First there was this real world and somehow we are here.