

Intelligent Design is False Science

Edict Date: 12-09-2005

The Church of Reality has determined that the theory of "Intelligent Design" is false science. The theory that says that complexity can not just happen and requires an intelligent designer is really just Creationism repackaged as science for the purpose of trying to sneak religious doctrine into science classes. It is a plot cooked up by the {In:nw:<http://www.discovery.org> 'Center for the Renewal of Science and Culture'}, a religious organization that is pretending to be a science institution. Their cult has come up with a plan they call {In:nw:<http://www.antievolution.org/features/wedge.html> 'The Wedge Strategy'} to fraudulently fabricate false scientific authority to justify it's inclusion in science to be taught along with scientific facts like {In:Evolution} which really is real science.

The children of Reality shall not be forced to endure the teachings of false science disguised as religion and it is appropriate for Realists to pull their children out of science classes where religious doctrine is presented as science. {In:Intelligent Design} is the religious doctrine of young earth creationists who are trying to use science to teach the Book of Genesis from the Bible.
